

CHURCH AT HOME

Issue 20: August 22nd 2020

Welcome, brothers and sisters to the twentieth edition of "Church at Home".

If you live in a home with older teens it is likely that the last couple of weeks have been a roller coaster of emotions as expected exam results came in. This year was more stressful than others as the Governments infamous algorithm predicted results for A Level pupils. It all went wrong when it was revealed that your grade was mostly defined by where you lived and what school you went to. It is hard to support a system where top private schools like Eton had no pupils downgraded but pupils who from no fault of there own and despite there hard work had their grades reduced. The government had no choice and the inevitable U turn occurred.

Does this all matter in the bigger picture? Yes, it does. The God we worship is a God of justice and compassion. We forget that injustice makes God angry.

What we seem to have lost in this seasons exam results, is that group of young people who didn't achieve what they hoped for. For them the message from our Lord is "don't abandon your dreams". You have time and you can achieve what you want. Remember God always extracts good from bad and he is on your side.

Follow the guidance, encourage each other, pray and stay safe.

Rev Clive

Spring Harvest

Next year's Spring Harvest dates have been announced. We will be taking a party to Minehead week 2 which will be 10-15th April 2021. Post Easter next year because of the late School holidays. See the information later in this bulletin.

Social Media

Do you do Instagram, Twitter, Google +, Pinterest, linkedin, Vevo, snapchat, reddit, tumblr or vero? Would you like to manage a St Paul's page or content on one of those sites? Please let Clive know.

Foodbank

As you can imagine we need donations for our foodbank. Tinned foods, cereal, squash, cakes, tea, coffee, toiletries, nappies, ladies products, soup, sauces, sugar, flour. Please make sure perishable items are in the suggested use by date. Please bring them to church on Sunday or Wednesday morning or contact Grace Allan for more information.

This is what to expect when you come to Church.

You must wear a covering over your nose and mouth, unless you have a good reason not to do so.

We are providing sanitizing gel and this must be applied on entering the church.

Please do not congregate at the entrance or in church, but move to your seats as directed.

Seating will be distanced, but of course, you may sit with other members of your household or anyone you have formed a bubble with.

Communion will be given in one kind only. You will be asked to keep a one metre distance whilst queuing and you will be required to use sanitising gel before receiving communion.

Unfortunately, at the end of the service it will not be possible to socialise in the church.

Please help our stewards, who have volunteered, to ensure that we can hold the service in safety and fellowship to the Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

This week's prayer

Almighty and All-loving God,
Father, Son and Holy Spirit,
we pray to you through Christ the Healer
for those who suffer from the Coronavirus Covid-19 across the world.

We pray too for all who reach out to those who mourn the loss of each and every person who has died as a result of contracting the disease.

Give wisdom to policymakers,
skill to healthcare professionals and researchers,
comfort to everyone in distress and a sense of calm to us all in these days of uncertainty and distress.

This we ask in the name of Jesus Christ our Lord
who showed compassion to the outcast, acceptance to the rejected
and love to those to whom no love was shown.

From The Church of Ireland

A message from Bishop Simon

Are first impressions right? Many pride themselves on their ability to make quick judgments about other people. Sometimes they are right; other times they are not. It's human nature to remember our successes more readily than our failures in life, so we become complacent in our judgment of others.

We ordinarily meet more people in one day than someone living in the middle ages would have encountered in a lifetime. So, we form quick judgments of others because we have little time to make an assessment. Sometimes this is essential: a stranger who stops us in the street must be sized up quickly. On other occasions we make these calculations lazily, resorting to stereotypes about people based on their looks, weight, clothes and how they speak. We deny Human judgment is clouded. In Matthew 16, Jesus asks his disciples who others think he is. It is the critical turning point in his ministry. People have had time to watch Jesus closely, to observe his power and to hear his wisdom. There was a buzz was about him; opinions were being formed and shaped. Yet the answer he receives is: 'some say you are John the Baptist, but other Elijah, and still others Jeremiah or one of the prophets'. When we are stuck for a judgment, we usually try to make sense of what is in front of us by turning to the past. The people couldn't imagine that Jesus was unique. He's the new Elijah, isn't he?, they were saying. Except he wasn't.

No sooner had Peter correctly identified Jesus as Messiah among this parade of prophets than Jesus turned the tables on his friend. In re-naming Simon as Peter, he saw him as the rock on which the Church would be built. This would have raised eyebrows at the time because Peter was impatient, mercurial and rash – qualities which are almost the opposite of what we expect from the leaders of the Church. But Jesus saw how Peter would grow into his role.

Once Peter had identified Jesus for who he was, Jesus was able to mould Peter into who he would become. We perhaps place less emphasis on character formation in discipleship than we ought to. This is partly because the surrounding culture is much more interested in personality than character, in being lively, outspoken and witty rather than patient, gentle and faithful, for instance. But our goal is to be transformed into the likeness of Christ, which places a priority on character.

The key to the transformation of Peter was the encouragement Jesus offered him. He showed Peter what God saw in him and dared him to live up to it. We are woefully short on encouragement in life. Competition is valued over co-operation in too many spheres; people are reluctant to offer praise because it is too effusive; they are suspicious when they receive it too, assuming they are being flattered or flirted with. Our consumer instinct means we keep people on their toes; they are never quite sure if they are good enough. No wonder so many people feel insecure today.

Despite the urge to judge others quickly and not subsequently change our view, many of us have experienced epiphanies in life. The man you fall for after a long time; the woman you suddenly see as a friend; the child who gives a glimmer of what they will become. Today we are preoccupied with the make-over; a superficial attempt to change the way others view us. A deeper task is the naming of others in a way that releases them to be the person God has called them to be.

This is the creative task God is asking of all those who owe their faith to the rock on which the Church was built.

We can release and empower someone with just a word. So, who will we set free this week?

Simon, Bishop of Tonbridge

tearfund

None of us could have anticipated what this year would hold. Our staff and local partners in more than 50 countries have faced one of their biggest challenges to date. When coronavirus spread across the world, they had to respond to an unknown threat and find new ways of working with communities.

As entire countries went into lockdown, people who were already in need became even more vulnerable – and it was harder to reach them. But our staff don't give up. They have been working tirelessly to follow Jesus where the need is greatest.

As well as coronavirus, our teams have been dealing with the usual challenges of their work, along with many new ones – including a locust plague in East Africa, escalating crises in South Sudan and Yemen, extreme flooding in South Asia, and the devastating explosion in Beirut.

This year, World Humanitarian Day is focused on celebrating the humanitarian workers who have been on the frontlines during the pandemic – our #RealLifeHeroes.

'It is infinitely moving to hear that our supporters are wanting to know how we are doing and how they can pray for us and for those who depend on our work,' says Emmanuel Murangira, Tearfund's Country Director in Rwanda.

We wouldn't have been able to overcome these challenges without your ongoing prayers and support. Thank you.

Books

This week's book suggestions come from gospelrelevance.com

Epic: An Around-the-World Journey through Christian History by Tim Challies

Tim Challies travelled around the world to survey thirty-three objects to help Christians better understand the Christian faith. The fruit of his labour is this book along with a DVD that is set to release in March. This is a unique idea that looks to provide a distinct contribution to the study of church history.

I Still Do by Dave Harvey

Harvey is no stranger to writing about Christian marriage since he's already authored one book on marriage entitled When Sinners Say "I Do". Married for over 30 years, Harvey now aims to show married couples how their marriage can last. This book is worth a look for those who are married, especially those who have been married for a while.

Uncommon Ground by Tim Keller and John D. Inazu

With contributions from Lecrae, Tish Harrison Warren, and others, this book seeks to answer this question: "How can Christians today interact with those around them in a way that shows respect to those whose beliefs are radically different but that also remains faithful to the gospel?" If this question interests you, check out this book.

There are so many different voices and people to listen to in this season: from scientists and those whose basis of truth is science, to the media and journalists, to politicians who are trying to lead our country. In these moments, it is important that we, as people of God, hear and listen to His voice above the crowd. We need to be feeding our soul and digging deeper into God's word, because it is our walk with God that will sustain us during these times.

I encourage you all to have a change of rhythm – to put down the tech and spend time with God, to open His word and spend time meditating on it, as you seek to discern God's voice. By rooting ourselves in Him we will be able to have peace at this time and be a source of hope to those around us.

In Psalm 119 it says: "Your word is a lamp for my feet, a light for my path." Let us make sure that God's word is the brightest light we are looking to. Let us fix our eyes on Jesus as we continue to navigate these uncertain times.

Fred Drummond, our director of prayer, asks us to pray especially for the church and church leaders as they too seek to keep their eyes on Jesus. Please join us in praying for them, as they lead their congregations through this season and reach out to their communities.

So today, let us turn down the volume on certain things and voices, and let us turn it up on Jesus. Let us listen to His voice and guidance, as He walks alongside us in this season.

Every blessing,

Gavin Calver
CEO

Refugees

They have no need of our help
So do not tell me
These haggard faces could belong to you or me
Should life have dealt a different hand
We need to see them for who they really are Chancers and scroungers
Layabouts and loungers
With bombs up their sleeves
Cut-throats and thieves
They are not
Welcome here
We should make them
Go back to where they came from
They cannot
Share our food
Share our homes
Share our countries
Instead let us
Build a wall to keep them out
It is not okay to say
These are people just like us
A place should only belong to those who are born there
Do not be so stupid to think that
The world can be looked at another way

Blast from the Past

From "St Pauls Church News August 1957"
Two pieces as true toady as they were 63 years ago.

CHRISTIAN GIVING.

Three Proved Ways.

There is some confusion in many Christian peoples' minds about their personal giving to the work of the Church. The confusion centres in the fact that they have not so far worked out for themselves all that is involved in discipleship. The principle to bear in mind is that one's giving to God is an integral part of our worship and of our stewardship of life, and not merely a matter of dropping a coin carelessly into the plate. Our giving to God should be cheerful, generous, and disciplined.

The following are three ways of giving which are worthy of attention:—

(i) Tithe Giving: This is not strictly enjoined upon the Christian in the New Testament, where the standard of giving is "all". When we commit our lives to God we hold nothing back. The Gospels speak to us of the "Widow's Mite", which was all she had, but the point which Our Lord makes about our giving is not so much the size of the gift as the cost of it to us.

The Old Testament tithe was "a tenth of total income", which had to be paid for the maintenance of the Jewish priesthood and the work of God. Few Christians give anything like this. However, we must be sensible about our Christian Giving: we should remember that the Old Testament communities were simple agricultural groups, who had no other rates and taxes, and few, if any, other public commitments apart from their tithe. Their living conditions were primitive, but in spite of it, they could give one tenth of their complete living, of the little they had, to God. The challenge to a Christian must obviously be, "I have, in Christ, so much more to be thankful for than the Jews of old, can I give less than they did?"

If every member of our congregation tithed, the result would truly be staggering. Tithing means that of one's "tenth" so much would be given to the Parish Church, and the remainder carefully allocated to various Christian enterprises, particularly missionary work.

(ii) Regular Giving: This is of the greatest importance. Our Church Records show that every year (1957 is no exception) from Whitsun to late September the weekly offertory drops by anything up to £3. It is because members of the Church are frequently away either on holiday, or for other reasons. A Church member ought to set aside a regular sum every week for the work of the Church, following the pattern set in the New Testament. The Freewill Offering can help you here.

(iii) Covenanted Giving: This is a method by which we can almost double our giving to God without any other cost than that of a little discipline and trouble. It concerns particularly all those who pay income tax at the standard rate of 8/6d. in the £, although it also includes all who pay income tax.

This is how the scheme works: The subscriber decides what he would like to give weekly to the Church—say 2/- per week—i.e., £5.4.0d. per year. He then signs a form promising to do this for seven years. As a result the Church Treasurer can then at the end of each year claim back from Inland Revenue the refund of tax amounting to almost £4, which increases the gift to more than £9.

“WHAT YOU NEED NEVER REGRET.”

There are ten things for which no one has yet been sorry. These are :—

1. For doing good to all.
2. For being patient towards everybody.
3. For hearing before judging.
4. For thinking before speaking.
5. For holding an angry tongue.
6. For being kind to the distressed.
7. For asking pardon for all wrongs.
8. For speaking evil of none.
9. For stopping the ears to a tale bearer.
10. For disbelieving most of the ill reports.
